

Editorial Policy and Disclaimers

Our standards for independence, accuracy, privacy and corrections

The EMS Leadership Podcast is published by The Public Safety Consulting Group (PSCG). These standards explain how we choose guests, handle facts and corrections, protect privacy and keep sponsors separate from editorial decisions.

Mission

To sustain the leaders of today while preparing and supporting the leaders of tomorrow. We share the ideas and experience of today's leaders, at every rank, so the next generation can build on them.

Editorial independence

- PSCG alone decides topics, guests, questions and editing.
- Sponsors and advertisers never review, approve or change episode content and cannot buy guest appearances.
- Guests do not pay to appear and are not paid to appear.

Disclosures and conflicts of interest

- PSCG is a consulting firm. When a guest, organization or topic is a current or recent PSCG client or business partner, we disclose that relationship in the episode or show notes.
- Sponsored content is clearly identified as sponsored, consistent with the FTC Endorsement Guides (ftc.gov).
- The host's views are his own and do not represent any public employer, agency or organization he serves, unless he says so.

Accuracy and corrections

- We aim to be accurate and fair. Statistics, studies and regulations cited by the host are checked before publication where practical, and sources are listed in the show notes when available.
- Guests may request correction of a factual error within 7 days of recording.
- If we find a significant error after publication, we will correct the show notes, add a correction note, and edit or re-publish the episode when needed. Report errors to info@thepscgroup.net.

Privacy and patient protection

- We never knowingly publish protected health information (PHI) or details that could identify a patient, caller or crime victim.
- Case examples are de-identified. We will edit out identifying details if they are mentioned.
- We do not publish security-sensitive operational information, such as tactical plans or system vulnerabilities.

Not professional advice

Episodes are for education and discussion. They are not medical, legal, financial or operational advice for a specific situation. Follow your local protocols, medical direction, policies and applicable law, and consult qualified professionals.

Opinions

Guests' opinions are their own and do not necessarily reflect the views of PSCG, the host or any sponsor.

Use of AI tools

- We may use software, including AI tools, to help produce transcripts, captions, translations, show notes and audio clean-up. A person reviews this material before publication.
- We do not create synthetic or AI-generated voices or likenesses of guests.

Comments and community

We welcome respectful discussion on PSCG channels. We may remove comments that are abusive, discriminatory, spam, or that contain patient or confidential information.

> Questions about these standards: info@thepscgroup.net. PSCG may update this policy. The current version is posted at https://thepscgroup.net/podcasts/.